(PRWEB) July 28, 2007 -- International Studies Abroad (ISA), an international education provider based in Austin, Texas, proudly announces three new study abroad opportunities for North American university students in Brussels, Belgium; Mekn s, Morocco; and Prague, Czech Republic. This expands ISA's program offerings to thirteen countries. Each program's coursework focuses on global affairs, broadening students' perspectives through courses taught both in English and the languages of the host countries: Arabic, Czech, Dutch, and French.

In Brussels, Belgium, ISA students will attend Vesalius College, home to the European Union, the European Parliament, and NATO. Through the Vesalius Internship Program and its established business partnerships, ISA students can gain both course credit and valuable international work experience. Academic coursework includes liberal arts, international relations, communications, and political science.

In the imperial city of Mekn s, Morocco, ISA students will attend Moulay Ismail University. In addition to Arabic language courses, students will discover the rapidly changing Arab World through courses exploring Moroccan culture and society. By choosing to study an increasingly relevant subject in a less traditional location, ISA Mekn s students gain a professional advantage in today's global society.

ISA students in Prague, Czech Republic will study at Charles University, recently named the leading university in Eastern Europe by the Academic Ranking of World Universities. At the oldest and largest Czech university, ISA students will participate in both Eastern European cultural and historical studies as well as intensive Czech language courses.

As ISA expands into new countries and continents, the service and student support that has been the hallmark of their study abroad programs for over 20 years remains constant. ISA continues their dedication to providing university students the opportunity to discover, learn, and explore foreign cultures while earning college credit for the best value possible.
